TERRIBLE FLOOD SITUATION

People Fleeing for Their Lives from the Raging Mississippi.

NEW OSLEANS. April 23.—The situation this morning throughout the flooded dis-tricts was indeed distressing. A heavy wind storm caused the backwater to rise rapidly. At Morganza houses are floating and people fleeing for their lives.

Metaric Cometery, with all its beauty and the tomb of Jefferson Davis, is under water. West Eaton Rouge and Esterville are in danger from back water.

Bayou Sarah has given up the struggle. The situation there is frightful. There is not one house above the flood. At Arkaneas City the Arkaness Valley route, between Recaville and Varper, is submerged for the third time in five weeks. Trains on that road are abandoned south of through like a millrace This flood cannot fail to be disastrous.

The crevasse which occurred at Martinez Place is supposed to have been the work of men from the opposite side of the river.

The break at Morganes is now 450 feet wide and over twenty feet deep.

Then he ordered me disrated and confined in irons.'
The cross-examination developed the fact that the crew had been worked hard, and that Meyer had an anchor watch the night before and was very alongy.
Liest, Ingersoll and Sergt, Calkins witnessed the occurrence. The witnesses' testimony could not be shaken.
S. B. Graham was the next man called. At present he is acting Quartermaster on beard the Enterprise, Graham was the man who was confined under a misapprehension. He was told to relate the particulars.
Monzies objected on the ground that the lorbook recard, introduced by the Judge-Advocate, exonerated the commanding officer, and that no further testimony could go behind the written record.
Assistant Advocate Stayton said that the logbook showed that the commanding officer made a statement simply, and nothing else.

They think that he premeditated the murder and had all his plans made for flight.

This seems plausible, because Jackson had his mustaine shaved off four days ago.

He is a Canadian by birth and lived in Montreal until two years and a half ago. Then he came to this city, leaving a wife and child behind him, and he has not since contributed to the support of his family.

Jackson was naturally quick-tempered, and when his passion was further inflamed by liquor he was dangerons and feared in the reacris frequented by him and Mamie Murphy.

Johnson was brought into unpleasant notoriety only a few months ago, when a youth named Dosy stumbled out of the place drunk, one merning, and fell on the sidewalk, fracturing his skull.

He was taken to the New York Hospital and died there next day.

He was the son of livell-to-do and respectable people, who were travelling in the West at the time of his death, and the case created quite a sensation.

An autopsy was made, and it was found that heart disease and not the fracture of the skull was the cause of death.

It was said at the time that the young fallow had been thrown out of the saloes, but at the inquest Johnson proved that this was not so.
